FOREWORD

This Roll contains the names, and, so far as can be ascertained, the dates and places of service of those of the Burgh and Parish of Auchterarder who took part in the Great War. The members of the Women's Services are in a separate list. A purple band surrounds the names of those who gave their lives for their Country.

A Roll like the following may seem a bald thing, but it carries with it to those who remained behind a degree of pathos which it is difficult to overestimate. It brings back to memory that fateful day in August 1914 when the Auchterarder Territorials marched off full of confidence and hope, determined to vindicate the Honour of their Country and the cause of Justice, little realising or little heeding that so many were going never to return. And it also brings to memory those long, sad years of anxiety that followed, until at last hardly an Auchterarder lad was left to step whistling down the street.

These things are past. The red-hackled boys have come back and with victory in their arms. But they are stamped for life by the experiences they have passed through. Some of them are maimed, and there are no less than eighty-two graves in the lands, whether they be in France or Flanders, Mesopotamia, Salonica, or Gallipoli, which to us are British soil.

We can but thank those who remain, though words do not carry with them what we feel, and, while reverently expressing our sympathy with the relatives of those who have fallen, try to make our Country worthier of all that has been given so freely for it.

"Their name liveth for evermore"

THESE

AT THE CALL OF KING AND COUNTRY, left all that was dear to them, endured hardness, faced danger, and finally passed out of the sight of men by the path of duty and self-sacrifice; giving up their own lives that others might live in Freedom. Let those who come after see to it that their names are not forgotten and that they shall not have died in vain.
